11:00 BUMMING 'ROUND THE WORLD: Bob and Eva Shurb were part of the international community of "legitimate bums" centered in Athens, the land of the 30-cent hostel. They describe hitchhiking through Africa in the rainy season, life in a Johannesburg Aerosol plant and (later) on Israeli kibbutz, and other delights of the road. Trevor Thomas conducted the interview and had to be tied to a mast for several days afterward to keep him around.

The famous author's report on his recent pilgrimage to India and Japan, with surprising comments on Zen and Yoga, brought this from C. G. Jung: "A meritorious as well as a needful act of debunking for which he deserves our gratitude." And from Newsweek: "Probably the most exciting inquiry into this whole subject to date."

ANTIGONE

TWO MONTHS AGO a man by the name of Ed Schell showed up at KPFA's studios on Shattuck Avenue with a home-recorded tape that he and several Berkeley friends had made. The quality of the tape was spotty, but the quality of the production thereon was not. It was a choral reading of T. S. Eliot's The Wasteland, an interpretation by Ed Schell, his wife Deborah, Jay and Deborah Shucter and William Murray.

OUR DRAMA AND Literature Department, which suffers long and manfully from a dearth of decent productions, was not about to let Mr. Schell & Company slip out of its hands. We arranged for the Wasteland group to come down to the studios, and we worked for several hours one evening marrying the dramatic talents of the interpreters to the technical requirements of radio. The result was a choral dramatization of The Wasteland that has now been played in both Los Angeles and New York; that has been requested for classroom use by three University of California professors; and that has drawn a good deal of mail—all enthusiastic—from listeners who wanted 1) copies of the tape, and 2) a rebroadcast.

IN THIS FOLIO we're happy to have another Schell production—a more ambitious one, a very successful one. It's a slightly abbreviated version of Sophocles' Antigone, with Jay Shucter as Creon, Deborah Schell as Antigone, Deborah Shucter as Ismene, Al Jacobs as Tiresias and Haemon, and Ed Schell as the guard and the messenger. Like The Wasteland, Antigone was an amateur project, conceived by a small group of friendly people, beaten into shape, and brought down to KPFA for recording. Unlike The Wasteland, Antigone was conceived at the outset for radio. Music has been dubbed in, choruses have been perfected, limited sound effects have been employed successfully. It's an excellent job, and it establishes its cast quite clearly as no longer amateur.
